

Professor Dan Peled: <http://econ.haifa.ac.il/~dpeled/>

Dan Peled is a Professor of Economics at Haifa University, Isreal. his work is on Economic Growth, the Economics of R&D and Innovation, and Monetary Theory. He has a B.Sc degree in Economics and Management as well as a M.Sc in Economics from Technion, Israel. He completed his PhD in Economics at the University of Minnesota. He has worked three decades as an economist in Isreal, Canada and USA, during which he has published extensively in leading academic journals. In addition to his outstanding academic career, he has been Academic Coordinator for the Program on “Science, Technology and the Economy” at the Samuel Neaman Institute for Advanced Research in Science and Technology in Isreal. He also chaired of the team on R&D and Technology Adoption responsible for the “2028 Economic Strategy & Vision for Israel” by the United States-Israel Science and Technology Commission. Dan is visiting IPRIA and MBS for a year.